Yahoo's Wide World o' Services

- Mission statement: Yahoo's mission is to be the most essential global Internet service for consumers and businesses
 - The Only Place Anyone Needs To Go Find Anything, Communicate With Anyone, Or Buy Anything
- Core Businesses
 - Consumer services
 - Internet content: Portal featuring content from over 2000 providers (news, travel, sports, games, weather, etc.) Portal can be customized (My Yahoo!) and acts as an RSS reader
 - Commerce services: Shopping, music (a la iTunes) auctions, finance, and classifieds
 - Communications services: Mail, Messenger, Photos, Greetings, Clubs, Groups, and the new Yahoo! 360 blogging/spaces beta offering
 - Mobile services: Mobile alerts and access to core services (mail, messenger, etc.) through mobile devices: mobile phones, two-way pagers and PDAs.
 - Marketing services
 - Ad services across properties (Overture acquisition), can offer commerce directly through some Yahoo! Properties (like Music, Ringtone sales, auctions, etc.)
 - Business services
 - Yahoo! Small Business: offers web hosting, hosted email (either 1 or 10 mailboxes on your own domain), Yahoo! Shopping (you can open a store through yahoo!), internet access, recruiting services, domains, and marketing tools (ads and local listings, etc.).
 - Premium services
 - Range of consumer and business fee-based services: fantasy sports leagues, extra storage, finance solutions (real time quotes, reports, and bill pay), yellow pages, sports, etc.

Mozilla Executive Summary

- Open source products are a force with which to be reckoned
 - Firefox has 12 M downloads and 7.4% of browser IB
 - Thunderbird has 5% of the IB of consumer home email usage – the highest market share after OE and Outlook
 - Multiple Languages and Platforms
 - 22 Languages, supports Windows 95/98/ME/2000/XP, Linux, Mac OS X, OS/2 and Solaris
- “Lightning” is the code name for the project to integrate Thunderbird and Sunbird
 - “Lightning is the working project name for an extension to tightly integrate calendar functionality (scheduling, tasks, etc.) into Thunderbird.”
 - Expected out in mid 2005
 - Start with point releases first

Sunbird v 0.2

- Sunbird was donated to Mozilla by corporate volunteer OEone (now called Axcentra).
 - Lead engineer: Mostafa Hosseini and Simon Paquet
 - Work for Axcentra (the company that launched the Calendar project)
 - Calendar work has been on again, off again while thrust of efforts put behind Firefox and Thunderbird
- Multi-platform support: Windows, Linux and Mac OS X
- Sunbird 0.2 features
 - Create scheduled events
 - See overview of events on a particular day, week or month.
 - Share calendar by publishing it to a WebDAV (World Wide Web Distributed Authoring and Versioning)-capable server..
 - Very limited functionality currently
- Lightning will share significant portions of Sunbird and Mozilla Calendar code
 - Mozilla Calendar is an extension to Thunderbird that works as a launcher for the Sunbird application window.

Calendar and Tasks (Sunbird)

- Version 0.2 and has limited functionality
 - Includes rudimentary calendar
 - Day, week, month views
 - Ability to create new appointments (now with recurrence!)
 - Basic task list is part of the Sunbird Calendar
- What makes them interesting
 - Can email calendar reminders
 - Checkbox in task list to “hide completed tasks”
 - Complicated to add a task
 - Lots of fields to be filled out
 - Lots of options still don't work
 - “Restore natural order”
 - Time Zones
 - Can include a URL in an appointment or task
 - Then includes a button to allow you to visit that URL directly from the task or app

Potential Roadmap - Sunbird

- Sunbird Publicly talked about

- Calendar 0.9

- Appearance & Performance - New theme; Ability to archive old events and tasks.
 - Associating - Events can have files attached to them.
 - Categories - Events can have multiple categories.
 - Exporting - Export to HTML.
 - Printing - Support for printing To do tasks; Support for printing list of events.
 - Settings - Option to set text color for calendars; New independent preference folder.
 - To do - Tasks to appear in main view (if option set); Filter views by category, date due...

- Calendar 1.0

- Appearance & Performance - Performance increase especially when dealing with large files.
 - Configurable email; Alarms triggered when Thunderbird/Mozilla only is running.
 - Accept Outlook invitations.
 - Option to leave out white-space; Print only results from search or "View" filter.
 - Pop-up window for advanced search.
 - Change settings dialog to new style and theme.
 - Search facility.
 - Views Drop down "View" filter menu should be configurable
 - Integration - Complete integration with Thunderbird.

- Calendar 2.0

- Invitations - Guests will be alerted when events changed; responses automatically imported.
 - Multiple People - Support for various calendar servers.
 - Synchronization - Support for sync with mobile devices.
 - Views - In-line editing for events in both list view and calendar view.
 - Standalone Build - Full support; as feature complete and as stable as Calendar

- Timeline

- Expect the 0.9 out in March/May of this year
 - Expect the 1.0 out in June 2005
 - Expect 2.0 second half of 2005

- Other expectations

- We should expect them to clean up their categories story when they merge with Thunderbird
 - Right now their categories list is completely separate and distinct from the "labels" metaphor in Thunderbird
 - Assumption: they will merge labels and categories

Trumba OneCalendar Overview

- "The word Trumba is actually an old Sardinian word for the kind of horn the town crier would blow when announcing the day's news to villagers."
- Launched: June 10, 2005
- Funding: $4.75 million in July, 2004 - Funded by August Capital and Kleiner Perkins Caufield & Byers.
- Management
 - Former MSFT folks: Jeremy Jacob and Ted Johnson - former MSN founders and ex-MSFT and Peter Mallis, former CTO of MSN
 - Jeremy Jacob, President and CEO
 - Ted Johnson, Vice President Products
 - Peter Mallis, Chief Software Architect
 - Dennis Terlin, Vice President of Marketing and Business Development
 - Clyde McQueen, Director of Software Engineering and Web Operations
- Seattle based company
- Service based Program
 - $29.95 for a year
 - Planning to introduce a $3.95 monthly fee and a family discount plan
 - 60 day free trial
- Application
 - Web-based (no client)
 - Internet Explorer 5.5 or later, Mozilla 1.4 or later, Netscape® 7.1 or later, Firefox 1.0 or later, and Safari 1.2 or later
- Key Features:
 - Unlimited calendar create
 - Publish group calendars as web pages
 - Private calendar sharing
 - Email upcoming events to a distribution list
 - Synchronize with Microsoft Office Outlook
 - Import contacts for emailing calendar
- User Targets
 - Families with multiple calendars including an Outlook/Exchange calendar at work
 - Social clubs: teams, clubs, volunteer groups
 - Social Organizations: churches, schools, teams

Main Tenants

- "Connected calendars."
 - Tackling the "calendar communication" problem
 - Individuals and organizations can publish and share calendars
 - Shared/published calendars can be easily integrated into a personal calendar (whether online in Trumba or in Outlook)
- Multiple Calendars
 - Supports unlimited custom color-coded calendars
 - Multiple editors per calendar
- Calendar UI built around viewing multiple calendars
 - Multiple views (day, week, month)
 - Calendar overlay
- Sharing
 - Public calendars
 - Private calendars
- Issues
 - Metcalf's law - Trumba is only as good as the network of people you can connect to
 - Expensive, $40 for each person who wants to maintain their own calendar. In a family scenario, this could get pricey
 - Incumbent upon the user to make sure the calendars stay fresh and organized
